
Tessi acquires the start-up Sweepin

Tessi is continuing its investments in the health care sector by taking a holding in Sweepin, a start-up dedicated to digitising patient pathways.

Sweepin is developing a mobile solution to revolutionise the patient pathway by enabling healthcare establishments to detect the arrival of a patient, to carry out their admission automatically and to guide them step by step to their appointment. As soon as they leave, the patient can also be charged for any payments they need to make.

Sweepin also offers a system for monitoring outpatients in which carers and hospital staff are warned in real time of the stages of the pathway or if the patient is lost.

The solution makes it possible to save time for the user and the healthcare establishments (hospital/clinic).

"Sweepin's goal is to build an offering based on the recurring needs expressed by our clients in the healthcare sector and to provide a global solution for the 'trip to hospital'", explained Matthieu Dibaji – Managing Director of Sweepin.

"Having Tessi as a major shareholder offers us the backing of player that is already well established in the world of healthcare," declared Johan Jegard - Chairman of Sweepin.

By becoming a shareholder in this start-up, the Tessi Group is continuing its investments in the field of technology and service offerings for the healthcare sector.

Tessi is already well established with its Digital Covid Certificate (DCC) solutions used for the French health pass or its solution for managing patient consent, and wishes to continue its commitment to healthcare in France and around the world.

"Sweepin's technical and operational offering is very broad. It covers three major phases in the patient life cycle: before, during and after the appointment at a hospital or clinic. Guiding Sweepin in its development is for us a logical continuation of our investment strategy in the Healthcare sector, after the development of our own specific solutions for pre-admission or consent using artificial intelligence. We will integrate Sweepin's offerings into our healthcare solutions to offer evermore services to our customers and their patients." declared Claire Fistarol, Chairwoman of the Management Board, Tessi.
